me: do me a favor
Caleb: Yyyyyyeeesss?
me: http://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/
me: look at all the top headlines Caleb: No.
Caleb: I'm not drunk enough.
me: "Am I the only one that thinks complaining about Netflix is stupid?"
me: "Best "Oops!" Moment Ever just happened to me... What's yours?"
me: "Instead of dressing up as wizards for the Harry Potter premiere, wouldn't it be way funnier to dress up as wizards trying to dress up as muggles?"
me: "What are some words you pronounced wrong for a very long time until you heard it spoken out loud? " Caleb: Chutzpah.
Caleb: http://www.rickperry.org/
Caleb: Also, I thought my "chutzpah" joke was very timely and funny.
me: Yeah. Well, you keep thinking that.
me: GOD
me: I think Rick Perry's involvement with RedState shows him to be a true conservative.
me: You can't put one over on those people.
Caleb: http://www.youtube.com/watch?feature=player_embedded&v=9_mWlXvKnq8 me: They've seen right through this Barack Obama character from the beginning.
me: hmmm
me: I look forward to the Jews for Bachmann website Caleb: Wait.
Caleb: Did you just use a soft "ch" when you said Bachmann?
Caleb: Idiot.
me: NO
me: but as I was saying me: before such a site comes about me: I think a lot of Jews would want to wait and see what her stance is on Israel me: After all, it's a complicated issue, and she probably hasn't had a chance to study it sufficiently yet me: Have you or your colleagues in the news media heard anything about what stance she may take on Israel?
me: oh
me: Redstate has a review of The Undefeated me: "We popped the film into our DVD player, and sat back to watch. One thing I had no doubts about was that Stephen Bannon would make a visually impressive, compelling film that would stir emotion. I was pleased to see that he used his trademark method of letting the people directly tied to the events tell the story (I often find narration cumbersome) adding their own particular emotions and perspectives to the narrative. These were all things that I expected and Bannon did not disappoint."

me: that's his trademark method Caleb: Revolutionized documentary film making.
me: (I often find narration cumbersome) me: "The film moves at a breakneck pace while still laying out a level of detail that brings you so close to the events, you feel like you personally experienced them."
Caleb: Edge of your seat thrill-ride!
me: He uses his trademark method of covering an issue by interviewing people with connections to events surrounding the issue and then presenting clips of them talking me: hey
me: you should make a Rick Perry video Caleb: I should have a video camera.
me: you don't need a camera me: just take clips of him working his magic me: oh, snap
me: his book
me: "Fed Up!"
Caleb: Old news, sucka.
me: No, this is a scoop
